Helping Good Teams Get GREAT Results

MEET CHRIS SHRYACK

Chris has dedicated his life to studying, practicing and teaching sales success. After an extraordinary career as the top sales professional in his field, Chris experienced what he called, “The Perfect Storm.” In a 30-day period, he lost his fortune in the stock market, was fired from his job, and if that wasn’t enough, his mother was diagnosed with cancer. His initial reactions were shock, and a sense of total defeat. Through this difficult time he found himself asking three important questions.

- What caused these personal challenges?
- What can I do to shift my results in a successful direction?
- How can I transform these circumstances into my greatest success yet?

Chris made a decision to seek guidance, mentorship and support. With expert help, he put into practice proven principles that govern success. This allowed him to overcome every roadblock he encountered and generate incredible personal, and professional, results. He earned multiple Sales Person of The Year awards, was promoted to a leadership position, earning Executive Leader of The Year, and successfully co-founded Maximum Sales Power. He quickly and easily replaced the fortune he’d lost. Chris discovered a vocation he truly loved and was able to help support and celebrate his mom’s remission from cancer. He had found success, but even better, he had created a life of “Full Spectrum Wealth.” Through this experience, Chris vowed to share what he’d learned to help others obtain sustainable, high-level success and to know for themselves that they could live their greatest life possible.

Chris perfected his high-impact leadership skills by mentoring with some of the most influential teachers in the world including Mary Morrissey, Les Brown, Tony Robbins and Bob Proctor.

Why do LEADERS love working with Chris Shryack?

“Chris, I definitely want to thank you for your guidance, support and advice! Since we started working together I earned the TOP SELLER for May and June and so far for July. I have written record sales volume this month already! Remember my most intimidating challenge when we started: to write double the amount of business this year? In three months alone, I have more than doubled my sales volume for the entire year! I am amazed how focused and inspired I can be with your guidance!!!”

EVERY LEADER WANTS TO INCREASE RESULTS.

Here are the top three reasons leaders trust Chris with their teams:

1. Strategic ‘additional’ support

Much is expected of today’s leaders; their schedules are full! Chris understands this because he has managed successful sales teams. Leaders recognize the value of teaching their teams about personal accountability, vision, and ‘success-principle’ thinking. The desire is there, but the time to do it is not!

Chris provides that much needed ‘additional’ support with his motivational and training expertise. Leaders save time and teams achieve unprecedented success. It’s a win-win!

2. Effective Influence

Often teams can become complacent and “tone deaf” to a leader’s message. Hearing from an outside influence can be highly effective. Chris is an expert at determining the perfect message for your team. He will support and emphasize the strategies and vision leaders are looking to implement.

Chris’s proven training methodologies work to get your specific message to your team in an effective manner.

3. Provide added value

Leaders are constantly tasked with bringing tangible value to their team. The challenge is developing fresh ideas and powerful messages that inspire greatness.

Thankfully, Chris has already done the heavy lifting! His approach to team-building inspires learning and self-improvement, both during his workshops and long after their conclusion.
